

An email from San Francisco.

Dear Anna,

I hope this email finds you in great spirits. I am writing to tell you about my awesome trip to San Francisco, a beautiful city in California.

We are staying at a hotel near the iconic Golden Gate Bridge which is a must-see tourist attraction. We rented bikes to go from one end to the other. From the bridge, we enjoyed a stunning view of San Francisco Bay and Alcatraz.

Let me tell you about Alcatraz. It is a small island with a prison. Well, it was a prison in the past, one of the strictest ones, but now it is a museum. I took a lot of selfies in prison cells. To get there you must take a boat tour from Fisherman's Wharf.

Fisherman's Wharf is a lively vibrant waterfront area with many seafood restaurants, street entertainment and colourful shops. While my mum went shopping, I and my sister went to Pier 39 to see and feed some sea lions there.

My father promised me that tomorrow we will go to Chinatown. I have never been to Chinatown and I love Chinese food so I look forward to it. My mum who is into botanic gardens would like to go to Golden Gate Park. I might go as well because I have heard that you can rent a paddleboat there and have fun on the lake.

San Francisco is a lot of fun. It is very multicultural and you meet people from many different cultures and regions of the world.

I hope to see you soon.

With love,
Lulu
