

An email from Dublin

Dear Anna,

I hope this email finds you well. I am writing to tell you about my awesome trip to Dublin, the capital of Ireland.

We are staying at a hotel near the iconic Temple Bar which is a must-see tourist attraction. It is a vibrant district of Dublin with many traditional Irish pubs, lively restaurants and souvenir shops. I bought a nice green T-shirt with a shamrock.

Temple Bar district, Dublin

Dublin is a city of street entertainment. On the way to Trinity College, we stopped to listen to some street musicians. I am not sure if it is true but Ed Sheeran also sang on the streets of Dublin.

Trinity College is situated in the centre of the city and it is the oldest Irish university. There was a long queue and we had to wait to get inside. I saw the famous Book of Kells which was written by hand (wow!) a long time ago.

Of course, we also visited St. Patrick's Cathedral. St Patrick is a saint patron of Ireland. He came there in the 5th century and converted many pagans to Christianity.

We didn't go to the Guinness Storehouse, a museum of beer, which is great fun. In the future, I would like to visit this museum and have a glass of beer. I have read that the Guinness Museum is the best tourist attraction in Dublin.

I hope to see you soon.

With love,
Julia
